LUCIE CATCHES MIKA'S EYE

An Ashford fashion designer has just added the finishing touches to costumes for the pop star Mika.

Lucie Ashworth, from Willesborough, runs Lady Lucie, a quirky fetish and glamour-inspired clothing label which provides eye-catching attire for circus performers, musicians and performance artists.

The 26-year-old's most high-profile commission to date was designing bespoke costumes for Mika's backing band.

THE father of Rachel Cheesewright, killed in a collision with a police car in 2005, says he will take the case to the House of Lords after a Court of Appeal ruled his daughter was partly responsible for the crash.

Miss Cheesewright was killed when her Ford Fiesta was hit by a patrol car driven by PC William Purse travelling at more than 90mph.

Last year judge Jonathon Simpkiss ruled at Canterbury County Court the police had been 100 per cent responsible for the death of the 29-year-old mother.

But now a panel of three judges at the High Court in London has overturned the decision saying Miss Cheesewright was 60 per cent to blame for the accident.

Rachel's father Tony Cheesewright said: "This was a death that should not and did not need to happen. My daughter would be alive today had the police driver PC Purse acted responsibly."

"Instead PC Purse chose to give the new police recruit in the passenger seat of his vehicle a macho thrill ride, driving at a reckless speed, straddling the centre line and forcing an oncoming independent witness to take evasive action by driving her car into a ditch, before he ploughed into Rachel's vehicle and cut it in half."

On the night of the accident - October 22 - Miss Cheesewright had just left the Bonny Cravat pub in Woodchurch where she worked as a barmaid.

As she turned onto the A28 her Ford Fiesta was hit by the police patrol car, splitting it in

Church will be transformed into arts centre

■ BY ED HILL

ASHFORD will soon have a dedicated venue hosting theatre, music and dance with work starting on St Mary's Church community arts centre in January.

Last week the council's executive committee heard how progress for the project was going from head of cultural services Mark Carty.

The church is already used for musical concerts and the occasional art exhibition, but the transformation to an arts venue will see a dedicated programme of music, theatre and art being staged at the site with the help of a long-term promoter.

Ashford council has provided £100,000 for new lighting and sound equipment and a further £1.2 million has been secured from central government as part of the town's funding as a 'growth area'.

Conservative Cllr William Howard said it would revitalise the church and was an exciting step forward, opening an historic building for public use that would bring many benefits in addition to the arts.

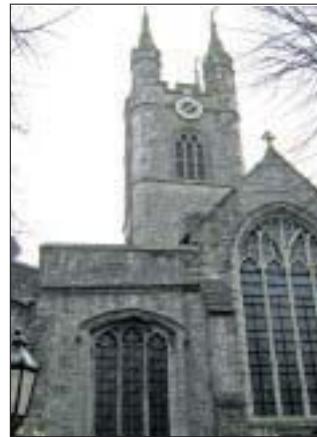

The church will still retain its function as a religious building with regular religious services continuing to be held there.

The church council will also have responsibility for running the venue with support from Ashford council.

At the meeting, opposition councillors expressed concerns that the project could change the character of the building and attract anti-social behaviour.

Independent councillor Peter Davison also said the town's growth plans meant a standalone arts centre should be provided for residents.

But Cllr Howard said: "We are talking about using the nave for a range of religious, arts and community activities, not rock concerts."

CULTURAL MAKEOVER: St Mary's Church

Cllr Davison also had concerns about the removal of pews.

He said: "They are part of the history produced by local craftsmen from local wood."

Cllr Gerry Clarkson, portfolio holder for cultural services, said that all the historic pews were in the gallery of St Mary's and would be retained untouched.

Mr Carty also assured councillors the work in converting the church would be done with care.

He said: "We accept churches are sensitive buildings. But St Mary's has been adapted 24 times over the years; it is a living building that is going forward to adapt to meet the needs of the community it serves."

It has long been recognised that Ashford lacks performance spaces particularly when it comes to the fields of theatre and dance. Groups have campaigned for a dedicated venue with little success. The conversion of part of St Mary's is seen as an attempt by the council to address the issue.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Council must face up to staff's job concerns

CONCERNED councillors want the authority to live up to the town slogan "best placed to live and work" after employment shortcomings were pointed out by their own workforce.

Now a raft of measures is being introduced to improve communication and iron out inconsistencies in a bid to recruit and retain the best quality staff.

Members accepted recommendations laid out in a detailed report, plus a suggestion from Labour Cllr Brendan Naughton that they consider incentives to encourage more staff to set an example, such as using bicycles to travel to and from work.

Planning committee say yes to new route

A NEW road that will improve access to and from the station and town centre have been given the go-ahead by the town's planning committee.

Victoria Way will provide a new route south of Ashford town centre linking the International Station at Romney Marsh Road and the A28 at Great Chart.

Work is expected to begin in spring 2010 and finish the following spring.

The application now has to go before Kent County Council's planning committee in the next few months for final approval.

Emergency services are put to the test

MEDICAL staff at the William Harvey Hospital practised an emergency drill on Friday and Saturday to check the cross border responsiveness to a major incident.

More than 1,000 members of the emergency services took part in the training which took a year to plan.

The scenario tested was a radiological explosion at a fictional college near Dover Castle, which involved a number of casualties that required decontamination and treatment.

The exercise also tested the command structure within each agency and their ability to work together.

It's a new era of high speed commuter travel

First bullet train leaves Ashford

■ BY ED HILL

A PACKED bullet train from Ashford pulled into St Pancras a minute early on Monday heralding a new era in high speed rail service.

Commuters were keen to experience for themselves what the 140mph journey would mean for their daily trip to the capital, and the train did not disappoint, making the run in just 36 minutes.

The trains, which will also stop at Ebbsfleet, have been introduced nearly six months before the full service begins in December.

Platform five of Ashford International was packed with travellers eager to get a good seat on the Hitachi train that would be pulling into the platform at St Pancras 37 minutes later.

Mark Gabriel from Singleton said: "I think it is very exciting. I have seen the test runs going through the station. I'm purely trying to see if I can get back to and from work quicker."

"I decided that if I drop having a coffee and the croissant in the morning that will make up for the increase in fare."

ALL ABOARD: Passengers board the first superfast train service at Ashford going to King's Cross St Pancras

"I think that it will be really good for the town and it will mean house prices will soar."

The preview service will see three peak hour trains departing from Ashford in the morning and three returning from St Pancras in the evening with the last train arriving back at the town at 8.09pm. Another traveller from the town was not so sure if the service would benefit his journey to the capital.

Eloka Obiara said: "I'm waiting to see if working my way back to London Bridge after I have arrived will work out. I'm not entirely happy about the fact that it is a considerable increase in fare. I want to see if I will have a seat to sit in on the way back."

A single ticket to London will cost an extra £4.40 to St Pancras.

As this first service departed on time at 6.48am there was a sense that the service will revolutionise the daily journey to work, although there will be a period of adjustment.

Vince Lucas, commercial director from Southeastern Trains, said: "It is good to see so many people here for this first train."

"But what we really want to see is completely full trains when we begin the service in December."

For details of train times and ticket prices go to www.southeasternrailway.co.uk

50 megabyte broadband has arrived

VIRGIN media is to roll out a 50 megabyte internet broadband service across the whole of the town.

The new network will allow customers to download an entire album in as little as 11 seconds, a TV show in around one minute and a high quality movie in three and a half minutes.

The increased capacity available with 50 megabytes also means several users can share the internet at the same time, whether it's browsing the web, playing on a games console, downloading music or using a laptop.

The town was chosen last year for trials of the 50Mb broadband services. The company recently announced that it has also chosen Ashford to carry out a trial of a 200 megabyte, one of the fastest in the world.

Jon James, executive director of broadband at Virgin Media, said: "We're delighted to launch our new ultrafast 50Mb service in Ashford. It will transform the online experience for individuals and families alike."

Virgin says that the basic package for the broadband service will be £35 a month.

Debt skyrockets as Citizens' Advice report record calls

RECESSION has brought a huge increase in debt across the borough.

And staff and volunteers at Ashford and Tenterden Citizens' Advice Bureau say they are struggling to keep pace with demand for its services.

Over the past three months they have seen a 70 per cent increase in financial problems.

Crisis

Briefing Ashford council last Thursday, manager Mick Fleming and chair of the trustees of the charity Mick Hubert said despite the vast increase in workload, with implications to the whole community they were responding swiftly and efficiently to the crisis.

They are expanding services, developing relationships with creditors and offering more outreach services in the rural areas.

But the group said reacting to the challenges needed more funding and more volunteers were needed.

■ BY ED HILL

Ashford CAB has served the town for 68 years. At their base in Norwood Street they have a staff of six plus 24 volunteer advisors.

More volunteers are needed but it will take time to ease the pressure as it takes 18 months to be fully trained.

Ashford council makes an annual grant of £111,000 which covers 75 per cent of core costs, the rest the charity has to raise in the community.

Additional funding is desperately needed to expand services and Mr Fleming appealed to councillors to do what they could to help the service.

He said: "Spread the message that we are a community resource that provides community success."

"We need cash, volunteers and trustees to help our work in these very challenging times delivering a much needed service."

PC was going too fast admit judges

two and killing her instantly.

Peter Cutler, from Harman and Harman Solicitors representing the family, said: "The judges said that Rachel's failure to look right a second time was a contributory factor to her death. For that minor omission they have attributed 60 per cent responsibility to Rachel."

The judges argued that if Miss Cheesewright had looked again she would never have pulled out in front of the police car, despite the fact it was emerging from a bend just before the junction.

However, the judges did acknowledge the police car was going too fast and that speed had been a factor that contributed to her death.

In the draft judgement they wrote: "I would hold that PC Purse's negligence driving at the speed found by the judge, without his siren sounding, was a contributory cause of the accident."

"Excessive speed can and did have immediate consequences."

The family feel that they have still won a victory because the police driver was considered partly to blame for the crash.

Mr Cutler said: "The 40 per cent apportion of blame on the police is significant and will mean Rachel's daughter Charlotte will get some compensation."

The family now say they are considering taking the case to the House of Lords.

Assistant Chief Constable Allyn Thomas from Kent Police said: "An inquest jury returned an accidental death verdict in January 2008, describing the collision as a 'tragic accident'."

"Kent Police's thoughts continue to be with Miss Cheesewright's family and everyone who was involved."

Beatles tribute act to play deaf charity show

TOP fab four tribute act The Beatlez are performing a special charity show to raise funds for the county's deaf and hard of hearing charity Hi Kent.

The band has played at top celebrity parties including one for Liam Gallagher of Oasis. The show takes place at The Weald of Kent golf club, Headcorn on September 18 from 7.30pm until 11.30pm.

Tickets cost £28 including a meal. Call Hi Kent on 01622 691151.

Pupils to take up final Challenge in panathlon

DISABLED school children from the borough will compete in the finals of the county's first multi-sport Panathlon Challenge today.

More than 200 youngsters, from eight different school sport partnerships, took part in heats across Kent in April this year to secure a place in the final at the Malling School, in East Malling on Wednesday.

The scheme has been delivering Paralympic type sport events for the past ten years in London and Liverpool.

Beleagured Sellinge will organise fight-back

VILLAGEERS in Sellinge concerned about future development plans will be holding a meeting at 7pm at the primary school tomorrow.

The village is currently objecting to proposals to build a waste recycling plant at the old Otterpool Quarry site as well as a suggested 2,500 space lorry park near Aldington. They also recently learned about plans for 1,100 houses in the area unveiled by Shepway council.

Singleton blazing two-wheeled trail to work

STAFF at the Singleton Environment centre recently led the way in going green when it comes to travelling to work.

As part of National Cycle Week they volunteered to make the journey to work by bike to show how easy it is to travel to the centre by pedal power. The centre also has cycle racks and shower facilities for those visiting it on two wheels.

For more information visit the Singleton Environment Centre or www.btcv.org/kent.

Pop stage is set for Lady Lucie designs

AN Ashford fashion designer has created outfits for the band backing high-pitched pop sensation Mika.

Lucie Ashworth, 26, from Willesborough runs label Lady Lucie, which focuses on raunchy clothing designed for the dance floor and theatre.

She specialises in using materials such as latex, silk and lace to create bespoke outfits for her clients.

Much of her work is influenced by the fetish scene but one of her latest projects has been to design costumes for the pop star Mika's all-girl backing band.

She said: "They gave me the colours that they wanted to use, which were pink and silver to match the stage props and other costumes that are used in the show."

The band came to her studio to be measured for the bespoke outfits before they went on tour.

She said: "They loved the clothes they are quite like costumes from a circus and a bit over the top. They have now taken them away and they will be used on tour over the next couple of months."

Miss Ashworth, whose love of clothing was inspired by her mother's job as a dress maker, says her style is particularly suitable for the stage.

She said: "My clothes do have a sense of performance about them but I also want them to be comfortable."

"When you go to college they always say don't design clothes for yourself, but that is actually what I do and I think it has worked out well."

Miss Ashworth recently finished a degree course at the Ashford School of Art and Design but even before she had graduated her designs were attracting attention from the music and fashion industries.

Projects that she has worked on include costumes for the circus, ballet and theatre. She told Yourashford she had just been working on costumes for a circus company performing at last weekend's Glastonbury Festival.

But Ms Ashworth, who has been described as a one woman creative army, says she is not cut out for the world of the catwalk.

She said: "I don't think that I will ever enter into the world of fashion because I don't like having to do things repetitively. I like having one-off big projects and making something unique."

School pals to pedal for charity

AN intrepid quartet of former school pals planning a lads' holiday have turned it into a marathon charity challenge.

Starting on July 19 at Land's End they plan to cycle the 550 miles from the further point south in England to the furthest point east, at the North Foreland near Margate in 10 days – on tandems.

Ben White, 22, a transport consultant with Ashford-based company Scott Wilson, said: "It started at a pub meeting when we decided we wanted an adventure but also to help charity."

His mother had been a patient at the Pilgrims Hospice and he was moved by the care provided so half the proceeds of their sponsorship will be donated to the charity with the rest to Kent Air Ambulance.

"Both have an impact on so many lives when people are in desperate need of help. The borrowed tandems idea was a brainwave inspired by the beer which may, or may not, turn out to be a good one as we have to carry all our camping equipment, but we wanted to attract attention to get support en-route."

He will be joined by Sam Mercer and brother's Dan and Joe Warner.

They can be sponsored individually by visiting www.justgiving.com or by calling Ben on 07772240772.

FLAWED: Millbank Centre project was set up to provide an alternative to places like Dover Immigration Centre (above)

Migrant project is slammed by Society report

A CHARITY has defended its role in a 'flawed' £1million pilot project set up to help failed asylum seekers and their families return to their homelands.

Migrant Helpline, which ran the Government-funded scheme at the Millbank centre near Kingsnorth, was criticised in the report by the Children's Society.

The highly critical report says the 12 month pilot, that ended in October last year was a "missed opportunity" and "flawed".

Roy Millard, deputy chief executive for the charity, said: "We were happy to play a part in developing a pilot that did not rely on the blunt instrument of imprisonment."

The scheme, which was co-run by the UK Border Agency, aimed to help 260 families but actually only dealt with 13, resulting in just one family returning to their country of origin.

Mr Millard said: "The pilot started to test things and provide useful information. Unfortunately that never really happened properly because not enough people went through it to test the model."

He said that simply focusing on the fact the project cost £1million, and only succeeded in helping one family leave the UK, was not looking at the whole picture.

Around 2,000 children, including many who have fled horrific situations, are locked up in immigration detention centres each year.

Mr Millard said: "These people have not committed a crime; they have only claimed asylum and their claims were refused. The ill effects of being detained on mental and physical health, especially on children, are very well documented."

In its report the Children's Society found that the criteria for finding families was confused, referrals to the pilot were slow, and there was limited awareness of the pilot amongst immigration staff.

It also said some of the families referred were unsuitable.

Mr Millard said: "If the pilot had worked and had the numbers coming through we would have had much more humane, effective and economically efficient model."

He said keeping a family in detention costs an estimated £20,000 a year and the alternative offered at Millbank was about a quarter of that.

The report suggested there was a climate of fear at Millbank. One family had come straight from the controversial Yarl's Wood detention centre in Bedfordshire and were in an emotional state and distrustful of the authorities.

The Children's Society said it had carried out the report to provide an alternative to the UK Border Agency's assertion that it failed because families absconded.

Immigration minister Phil Woolas said that lessons learned from the project would be used to design a new pilot currently running in Glasgow.

Developers defer pay due to recession

THE recession is prompting public bodies to let developers off the hook by relaxing deadlines for community contributions.

A report has been published that monitors 106 agreements, deals which require developers to pay for infrastructure projects around the district.

Last year the council, along with other bodies such as Kent County Council and the Highways Agency, signed agreements worth almost £6m with developers in the Ashford area. However, the actual money collected amounted to just £635,018.

A children's play area in Godinton, the Singleton Environment Centre, and the Eureka Park bus service have all been paid for using money from 106 agreements.

But because of the current economic downturn many developments around the town have slowed and the council has agreed that at certain key sites such as the old Newtown railway works, developers can defer the payments until a later date.

The report says that there is often a time lag between the payments being made and the money being released.

Before schemes can go ahead they are assessed by the monitoring committee as to whether they are suitable for receiving the funding.

Future projects likely to be paid for by the money include a new sports ground in at the Swan centre in Willesborough and a skate park in Singleton.

yourashford NEWS IN BRIEF

Funeral for student Ben

THE funeral of Ben Neilson, the student who died after an attack in the town centre, will be held at Willesborough parish church today.

Mr Neilson grew up in Willesborough and was studying at Northumbria University. He had returned home to see friends and family in Ashford when he was attacked in the Lower High Street.

He died a week later in a London hospital from the serious head injuries sustained in the attack.

Northumbria University has invited his parents to Newcastle to pick up his degree which has been awarded to him posthumously.

His family have now set up a memorial fund in his name to raise funds for a lasting memorial to their son.

The funeral will start at 11am. To make a donation to the memorial fund visit www.bennelsonmemoralfund.co.uk.

Driving up parking costs

CAR drivers making their way to the borough's town centres now face increased parking charges.

It now costs 80p to park for an hour in Ashford and 70p in Tenterden, an increase of 10p. Further time is paid for in five pence increments and the minimum charge will be 30p. The increased charges were introduced on Sunday.

Eighteen months have passed since the last increase in parking charges.

Season tickets and long-stay charges have also risen – see www.ashford.gov.uk/parking.

A28 speed limit change?

THE Joint Transportation Board has been discussing proposals to reduce the speed limit on the A28 to 40mph.

The plans would extend the speed limit from Great Chart through Betherston and onto High Halden.

The intention to reduce speed limits in the area has been put forward by Kent Highways after requests from Betherston Parish Council. The proposals will also include new verges, signs and marker posts.

Funding's been secured to implement the changes and the council's been asked to recommend they be introduced as soon as possible.

Showing the best of Ashford's businesses

BUSINESS leaders have been boosted by the success of the latest Chamber of Commerce annual exhibition.

And they say local companies are determined not to submit to recession depression.

The message from the trade fair was that Ashford is the place for business to thrive.

Opened by the Mayor Cllr John Holland, the Invicta Chamber of Commerce 23rd annual show at Ashford International Hotel last week once again proved to be the premier showcase for the cream of Kent business.

After touring the 100 exhibition stands the Mayor and other VIPs said were delighted by the lack of negative comments and the real will to survive and prosper.

Chamber chief executive Jo James, said: "There was a real buzz with an increased number of visitors to network with exhibitors determined to do business."

Activity

Guest speaker KCC cabinet member for regeneration Kevin Lynes, outlined efforts to support the Backing Kent Business campaign.

Currently, the county council spend £900 million a year and only 40 per cent of that goes to around 5,000 Kent firms. He pledged to make it easier for county companies to bid for contracts to see a rapid rise in the percentage.

With every corner of the hotel packed, there was plenty of activity as businesses spent eight hours explaining their offers.

Some left with unexpected orders and most had impressive lists of leads to follow up.

The range of goods and services on show was vast and varied, from award winning designers and computer system experts alongside transport specialists and security companies.

It all added up to another huge success for the Chamber, which is still desperate for a larger venue to show off all that the town has to offer.

QUESTION & ANSWER

MARK AND EMMA SCOTT

Q & A

Reporter Ed Hill spoke to the Salvation Army officers who have recently moved to the town about the challenges of their new position and why there is more to the Salvation Army than bonnets and tubas

Q Can you tell us something about the work that the Salvation Army does?

A The Salvation Army is a Christian Church and registered charity with a strong connection to serving the community, at both a national and local level.

Here in Ashford, we have church services on a Sunday and activities throughout the week, ranging from parent and toddler groups to a drop-in lunch.

Q How did you first get involved?

A We both attended The Salvation Army as children and were greatly influenced by our parents. In 2005, however, we felt that God wanted us to be full time ministers of religion in The Salvation Army. We finished our two years of residential training in July last year and Ashford is our first appointment.

Q What is your relationship with Ashford? Did you know much about it before you came here?

A We didn't know much about Ashford before we were posted here, except for the Eurostar and the Designer Outlet!

Q What sort of feelings did you have before coming to the town as this was your first post?

A We experienced a real mix of feelings. We were excited to know where we would be living for the next few years and where our baby would be born, but also a little apprehensive as we were entering a totally unknown situation. But people have been very kind and supportive as we settle into the area.

Q Do you think Ashford has any particular challenges which you will encounter in your work?

A One of the main challenges we can see is that as the town expands, the services and amenities will need to expand as well. This can result in extra economic pressures and in the current financial climate will be something to watch.

Q What do you think the wider public's view of The Salvation Army? Is it a stereotype that you find frustrating or have to work against?

A We are very blessed in The Salvation Army, as many people hold us in high regard. However, we do need to live up to this. There is also the stereotypical image of a Salvationist in a bonnet, with a drum or tuba, but in Ashford, people are aware that there is much more to our movement than this. These days, there is much more diversity in The Salvation Army.

Q You have just had your first child. How do you think this will affect your work with the church? How do you think The Salvation Army will affect her?

A Parenthood is a steep learning curve. Obviously in terms of time, our daughter has meant we have had to slow down a little. We can no longer both be at some Salvation

Army activities, particularly those in the evening. However, our daughter is such a blessing and we want her to know that above all else she is loved. Sometimes it can be difficult when we feel we are letting people down but ultimately our daughter is a gift from God. We want to honour him through the way we bring her up and hopefully be a good example to her.

Q What do you get out of being in the organisation?

A Where else would we get to meet so many people from so many places? It really is a privilege to spend time with people, and we are amazed sometimes at the people we meet. We learn so much from them and hope this will continue into the future.

Q How can other people get involved?

A We would love to hear from anyone who would like to volunteer at one of our activities or who would like to attend. They can call our centre on 01233 643480 or visit www.salvationarmy.org.uk/ashford.

Q If you had not got involved with the Salvation Army is there another career path you might have chosen?

A Mark – I would have loved to have been a footballer.

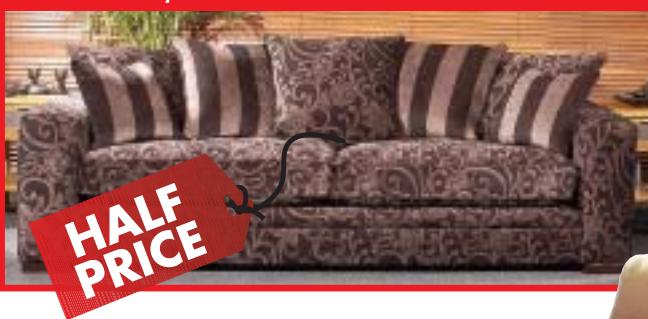

Emma – I would have loved to have danced as a ballerina.

Festival organisers' £1m ticket splashout

NEARLY half of all tickets for Kent's biggest music festival of the summer have been given away FREE with a flimsy celeb-backed raincoat worth just £10.

Organisers behind the star-studded Hop Farm event in Paddock Wood next weekend stunned music fans earlier this week when the unbelievable offer of a pair of complimentary weekend passes, worth £250, was tacked onto sales of blue and grey designer 'Splashmacs' on a budget fashion website.

But they have denied claims the event was selling poorly – despite some fans who already snapped up tickets reacting furiously to news of the offer.

The 20,000-capacity event takes place next weekend with a big-hitting line-up including the likes of Paul Weller, The Fratellis, Editors and Echo and the Bunnymen..

A remarkable 6,000 weekend tickets – which normally sell for £125 each – have been promised to buyers who paid for a colourful bad weather cover worth less than a tenth of the ticket's value.

The MandMDirect site was flooded with so many customers on Tuesday trying to get their hands on the Splashmac, it sold out and switched the ticket offer to a luminous towel, worth £9.77.

A few hours later and 1,000 had gone, meaning another 2,000 people could snap-up Hop Farm passes. That's a total of 8,000 tickets given away as part of the promotion – or £1million's worth of potential sales.

The website reported that the closing date to claim tickets was June 29. All those taking advantage of the offer had to do was pay £16 for a camping permit.

Hop Farm Festival chiefs who pride themselves on their "no sponsors, no branding" approach have denied the extraordinary offer was merely a stunt to get rid of unwanted tickets.

EXCLUSIVE

■ BY GARETH DORRIAN

They claim the giveaway was a stroke of generosity by festival boss and famous promoter Vince Power and a drive to raise money for a good cause – but didn't prove the Hop Farm Festival was a flop which hard-up punters didn't want to attend.

All funds raised from the sale of three thousand £9.99 Splashmacs and 1,000 towels will go to the Teenage Cancer Trust charity.

Festival spokesman Ian Roberts said: "Vince Power is just an incredibly generous man. He has decided to give away tickets with every purchase of a Splashmac.

Sold out

"I don't think anyone will have a problem giving money to a reputable and worthy cause. Certainly we live in difficult times and music festivals are in a difficult position.

"But we are sure the Hop Farm Festival is an incredibly strong event with a fantastic line-up that people in Kent will really enjoy. A great weekend of top bands and entertainment is in store."

A customer service worked for the MandMDirect website admitted: "We've been inundated with calls about the Splashmac, it's an unbelievable offer. Some people have bought two or three of them, meaning they could have six tickets for the Hop Farm."

Some fans who have paid for tickets are furious. Emily Dorman, 23, from Maidstone, said she had struggled to raise the cash to buy a pair of tickets and couldn't believe the Splashmac offer.

She added: "I scrimped and saved to get these tickets and then I hear they're being ditched out with a raincoat. It's not fair, to be honest. I just hope the festival is as good as they say it's going to be."

SNAP AWAY: Authorities say taking pictures of your children at sports day does not breach the Data Protection Act

Privacy watchdog gives thumbs up to sports day photos

PARENTS who take photographs of their children at sports days and school plays are acting completely within the law – a privacy watchdog has ruled.

Local authorities, including Kent County Council, have been told that mums and dads are allowed to take shots for the family album – and that it's no breach of the Data Protection Act.

Relatives wanting to take pictures at public events have often been told that they are breaking the rules.

But the Office of the Information Commissioner last week said this interpretation was simply wrong.

It ruled that any snap taken for the family photograph album would normally be acceptable. This guidance can be used to challenge any bans enforced by councils as many schools stage their annual sports days.

Guidance has been sent to education authorities across the country. It reads: "Fear of breaching the provisions of the Act should not be wrongly used to stop people taking photographs or videos which provide many with much pleasure."

"Where the act does apply, a common sense approach suggests that if the photographer asks for permission to take a photograph, this will usually be enough to ensure compliance."

Egg-stremely good fun on the free-range farm

RACHEL MCATHY finds out more about the happy lives of egg-laying chickens

CAMPAIGNS for free-range egg production have swept across the nation, endorsed by celebrity chefs and supported by some of the country's biggest stores.

Now rearing your own chickens, for the freshest eggs around, has become one of the country's fastest growing hobbies, which is good news for one farmer.

Doug Wanstall runs Bank Farm in Aldington, near Ashford, and it is from here that he pioneered a local food distribution hub that now supplies Kent produce across the county and in London.

But much of his success is down to the work of an army of 30,000 free-range chickens.

With access to 100 acres of land, they live a carefree life – popping out around 178,500 eggs a week.

But it is the nation's love of our feathered friends that has boosted business the most.

"People seem to be more emotionally attached to their chickens than anything else, which is nice for us," he said. "It is quite bizarre."

Collecting the eggs follows an almost military procedure. The eggs are laid into nesting boxes and then roll down onto a conveyor belt before being examined, graded and boxed ready for sale. But the trickiest job is getting every bird back to the roost at night.

"They get let out at 7am and we take it in turns to bring them in again at dusk," he said. "It's my turn at the moment to round them up, and it's not easy. It's often 10pm before the little darlings are ready to go to bed."

Programmes by celebrity chefs such as Hugh Fearnley-Whittingstall, who spearheaded a free-range chicken campaign, helped boost interest in Mr Wanstall's business. It also led to the BBC using Mr Wanstall for its egg needs.

Chickens that are free to roam get a much more varied and nutritious diet, whereas yolks from caged hens are often injected with artificial colours to give them the glow only grass can naturally give.

Despite more and more people rearing their own 'backyard' chickens, Mr Wanstall said business is good.

In fact, to keep up with demand, he has started supplying people with the chickens and the know-how to 'lay their own'.

"As long as they have a suitable amount of land, anyone can have chickens," he said. "There is nothing like getting eggs fresh every morning, you can't beat it."

"Although you have to be prepared for the chickens' fairly destructive nature when it comes to grass."

Even the reject eggs do not go unused and are donated to Port Lympne Wild Animal Park, in return for hefty amounts of elephant dung for use as fertilizer.

Mr Wanstall's great-grandfather bought the farm, which has passed down through the generations, in 1918.

His father still works on the farm, as well as his uncle – it is truly a family business.

Since he took over, Mr Wanstall's dreams of getting local produce more readily available have become a reality. He now supplies hospitals, schools, hotels, food stores and restaurants in Kent and London. He also buys products from local farmers and sells them on to a range of customers interested in local food.

Despite economic struggles earlier in the year, which ended his supplies to Asda stores in Kent, he still provides the supermarket with 20,000 eggs a month.

• Mr Wanstall's eggs can be purchase online at www.foodforkent.co.uk – your one-stop shop for all your locally produced, and sourced food and drink.

Win a luxury hamper of Kentish delights

YOU have until the end of July to be in with a chance of winning a luxury hamper of Kent food and drink.

To tie in with 'Hop to Your Local Shop' week, Produced in Kent is hoping to encourage people to make the most of their local farm shops and independent food retailers.

To be in with a chance of winning, you must supply the name of the village or town you live in and the nearest farm shop online at www.producedinkent.co.uk.

Julie Monkman, manager of Produced in Kent said: "We want to shout about the benefits and pleasures of shopping in your local farm shop or independent food retailer."

"Shopping locally is also a lot more fun and it's cheaper than the supermarket."

Research shows £10 spent locally is worth £25 to the local economy, as opposed to £10 spent in a supermarket, which is worth just £14 to the local economy.

The competition ends on July 31.

Plenty of places to buy local

THERE are a host of farmers' markets taking place across the county in the coming week.

On Tuesday, Hildenborough market runs from 9-11am, and Capel-le-Ferne will have stalls running from 10am-1pm.

Deal is holding its market on Wednesday, from 9am-noon.

On Thursday, the county is spoilt for choice with five market hosts. Shipbourne market will run from 9-11am, Whitfield from 9am-noon, Bexley Heath from 9am-3pm, Rovenden from 10am-noon and Chatham from 2.30-5pm.

Again on Friday there are plenty of venues to choose from. At Bromley the stalls will run from 9am-5pm, Edenbridge from 9.30-11.30am, Challock from 1-4pm, Egerton from 2-4.30pm and Aylesham from 2-5pm.

See www.kentfarmersmarkets.org.uk for full listings.

We are committed to adding more local suppliers to our online service and any local business or producer that wishes to join our campaign should contact us at foodforkent.co.uk or email us at feedback@kosmedia.co.uk

TV TIMES: Paul O'Grady at last year's Aldington Primary School fete

CHAT show host Paul O'Grady is expected to open Aldington Primary School fete on Saturday.

The event is the biggest fundraiser in the school's calendar and in 2008 the fete – which was also opened by Mr O'Grady, who lives near the village – generated a record £2,959.

The July 4 fete will have an American Independence Day theme, with a marching band from the 305 (Ashford) Squadron Air Training Corps starting the programme at 2pm.

Older children have designed and will run USA-themed stalls, while the Swingtime Sweethearts, a 1940s wartime swing duo, who were runners-up in the Britain's Got Talent semi-finals, will entertain at the refreshments tent.

Joint chair of the Parents, Teachers and Friends Association, Sally Newall, admitted maintaining the momentum for raising school funds could prove difficult.

She said: "We have been extremely fortunate with the level of support for the past few years, helped a lot by Paul O'Grady's kindness in supporting his local school."

■ BY ED HILL

"People come in droves to see him start proceedings and he usually spends as long as he can joining in the fun."

"But we can take nothing for granted in a recession and the weather plays a big part, although we still posted record takings in 2007 despite heavy rain at the end."

Head teacher Sandra MacCourt praised the organisers' commitment, which has ensured she can offer facilities normal school funds could not provide.

She said: "It is reassuring that I can turn to an active Parents, Teachers and Friends Association to fund special projects, which have included sun shades for the quiet area of the playground, stage lighting and a projection system for the hall, plants and fruit trees for the school grounds and refurbishment of the school's weather station."

Tickets for the fete's popular draw are on sale at the school office. Please note that no dogs – except guide dogs – are allowed on the school grounds.

The school will also be holding an arts and music evening on July 10.

BREAK TIME

That's all in a good cause, folks!

ASHFORD School pupils from Pilgrims House took part in a fancy dress non-uniform day to raise money for the Leukaemia Research Fund.

After the success of dressing as superheroes last year, this time the children at the independent school took on the theme of cartoon characters. Outfits included

SpongeBob SquarePants, Darth Vader, Shaggy, Poison Ivy and Minnie Mouse.

Organisers say the students had a great day raising money for the worthy cause.

Leukaemia Research is the only charity in the UK dedicated exclusively to researching blood cancers and disorders including leukaemia, Hodgkin's and other lymphomas, and myeloma.

The charities fundraising chairman is currently the ex Labour party communication director Alistair Campbell.

For more information on Leukaemia Research Fund visit www.lrf.org.uk.

Eco school project

MERSHAM Primary School has signed up to be an eco aware school.

The project means children are encouraged to learn more about topics such as recycling and looking after trees and wildlife.

As part of World Environment Day children designed and built Scooby the junk robot to promote collecting litter and recycling.

Speed workshop was slow to put the message across

IT'S not that often that I get the chance to spend a morning in a room with 18 other convicted criminals, but as a result of an incident with a London speed camera a few months back I found myself in Ealing attending a speed awareness workshop.

Quite frankly, it was an outrage that I was there in the first place. I was clocked doing 34mph in a 30 zone and as Ray, our cheerful lecturer for the day, told me: "You were unlucky that is the lowest speed you have to get to end up at one of these things."

As a first time marginal offender I was given two options. Pay the £60 fine and end up with three points or pay £95 for the chance to visit a London office block and listen to Ray for a couple of hours. The police would then consider the matter dealt with.

I've always been pretty smug about having a clean licence; it has been one of the few things in life I could point to as a sign of my obvious merits as a fine upstanding citizen, so I plumped for the trip to Ealing.

The first session was spent looking at a computer screen showing driving scenarios in which various hazards present themselves.

The film was shot from the driver's point of view. Whoever had taken out the motor that day was very lucky to have made it to work without killing the various cyclists, toddlers on scooters, mums, guide dogs and grannies all leaping off the kerb in front of them.

After being assessed by the computer it concluded that I was average at pretty well everything when it came to driving. Although it did tell me I needed to lower my cruising speed.

In the second session Ray discussed with the group how we should all be more aware of speed and the consequences of being fractionally over the limit in the event of an accident.

I had been warned beforehand that I was likely to see graphic images of bodies torn apart in motoring accidents. Instead we all took part in a group discussion on why we sometimes go too fast. And this was my problem. Let's be honest, we were all there because we wanted to maintain our clean licence, not some desperate desire to learn about speed.

The least the organisers of these things could have done is shaken us out of our complacency. We deserve to be shocked and have a sleepless night because we have been confronted by the damage a car can do to a flimsy human body. I may have avoided getting the points, but avoiding the guilt if I ever killed someone because of my driving is a much harder dodge to pull off.

The only people who are really benefitting from this exercise are the company contracted to carry out these workshops.

WIN £2,500 off a conservatory

IT'S the perfect way to improve your home – giving you extra space and flooding your living area with natural light.

And now you could be sitting pretty this summer courtesy of a fantastic competition with KOS Media and Britelite.

Britelite, Kent's largest independent home improvement company, has been famous for the past 39 years.

In this time it has built an enviable reputation for quality installations in both the window and conservatory arenas. And with just a little thought and planning, a Britelite conservatory can transform your home.

Britelite install a fantastic range of conservatories to suit all tastes, homes and gardens:

Sun-lounge conservatories

This is always popular, both as glass to ground and dwarf wall styles. A surprisingly affordable way to extend your home and blend your living area into your garden, Britelite can provide you with a variety of comfort options, such as ridge ventilation, roof vents and special heat-reducing roofing materials.

Victorian conservatories

The classic design of a Britelite Victorian conservatory enhances virtually any style of property; the steeply pitched roof gives a feeling of space, allowing maximum light in, regardless of the season.

Edwardian conservatories

The beauty of a Britelite Edwardian conservatory is that whilst it is an attractive extension to your property, with its sophisticated high-pitched roof design, it also gives you the maximum possible floor space.

Combination conservatories

The unique design of these mean it is tailored exactly to your needs – you might like to combine a Victorian conservatory with a sun lounge conservatory or perhaps two Victorian conservatories together? With the extra space available, you can use your Britelite conservatory for dual purposes, such as a sitting area or even to house that luxurious swimming pool you've always wanted!

Now we have teamed up with Britelite to offer six lucky winners the chance to win vouchers to spend at Britelite. The first prize is a £2,500 Britelite conservatory voucher.

Two second prize winners will each receive a £1,000 voucher and three third placed readers will collect vouchers worth £500.

To enter, simply answer the question below and send your entry on a postcard along with your email address (if applicable), name, address, and daytime telephone number to Britelite Competition, KOS Media, Apple Barn, Smeeth, Ashford, Kent, TN25 6SR.

TALK TIME

TERRY DICKINSON

The naval veteran from Willesborough talked about his latest trip to Normandy on the 65 anniversary of D-Day

What was the journey like this time?

We were taken by the British Legion who looked after us very well. The trip has been paid for by the National Lottery. It's good that the money was used for something like this. We first went to the service that was held at Bayeux with all the dignitaries which was very impressive. I also got the chance to speak to Prince Charles afterwards who spent a long time talking to all the veterans. I managed to get a photo of myself next to him. I said: "I've got one of me and dad so I better have one with you as well."

What happened while you were there?

I went back to a house on the beach that I had not seen for 65 years. When we were there on D-Day, it had been full of German machine gunners. Now the Canadian veterans use it as their headquarters whenever they come over for the celebrations.

I also met an ex-marine officer who had been next to me in another landing craft on the day of the invasion, who I had never met before. I'm really glad we went it but it was hectic packing everything in. The French people are so good to us and always so glad to see us. It is strange really because many of them were killed as a result of the invasion.

We spent a long time trying to find a grave for someone whose husband had been killed in action so we could lay a wreath. We searched everywhere for it; in the end we found it in the graveyard of a French church. It was the only military grave there. In a way it was sad to see it all on its own.

YOUR LETTERS

Community spirit is alive and well

Two interesting village stories of a very different nature juxtaposed on your pages last week. It was heartening to read about how Mersham villagers have clubbed together to save their pub, and an inspiration to all of us to do more to keep small communities alive.

Less positive but still laudable was the way Sellindge villagers have united to fight the threat to their home from the various developments that could be imposed on the community.

I think both these stories show that under pressure, community spirit is still very much alive, and capable of delivering real results.

provoked outrage amongst the voting public but the sums are small in comparison with the misuse of money committed by bankers.

Everyone seems to have forgotten how these people who ruined the economy kept on awarding themselves huge sums in bonuses even as people's mortgages and savings collapsed.

The economy was supposed to be collapsing around us a few months ago and now we don't even hear such alarms and forecasts of doom as we were doing.

Has everyone forgotten the predictions of a new great depression – or was it all rubbish in the first place?

Are pristine trains on track to ruin?

What an amazing picture on the front of Yourashford last week. The caption underneath was spot on – it looks uncannily like a model railway, so much so it's almost hard to believe those are real trains.

I'm sure the illusion is helped in no small part by the fact that everything, from the locomotives to the rails, are brand spanking new!

I wonder how long High Speed 1 will remain in such pristine condition?

Perhaps your paper could provide another aerial photo in six months time!

Why cook up a storm over MP food claims?

Why is there such an outrage over the small items of food claimed by MPs as part of their expenses?

Where I work one of the few things allowed to be claimed back are small sums for breakfast if you have an early start or dinner for a late finish.

Writing a sentence about my disgust

I was disgusted to read about the brutal attack carried out by those two young thugs last week.

Apart from the viciousness and cowardliness of the attack, what I found most shocking were the sentences imposed.

I trust Swansborough's 'five year minimum' will turn out to be a lot longer.

He is obviously a serious threat to the public.

And as for Moore, in my opinion there is no doubt he seems to have got off lightly.

He might not have been the one carrying out the attack, but as the judge said, he knew exactly what was going on and prevented anyone from helping the victim.

Ready for change from MP expenses

So let's draw a line under the MPs expenses scandal shall we. It's now getting very boring.

It was a very good piece of work by the Daily Telegraph to reveal the abuses that were going on, but now I think the story has reached its end and ran its course.

I do hope however that those members who feel tempted in the future to dig a moat or construct a duck island realise what will happen to them if anyone finds out.

Costly trains taking wrong direction

While the numbers are very impressive for the high speed rail link, I can't help thinking it's more evidence we're moving in the wrong direction.

Why is the government investing billions in premium rail services, aimed at a few wealthy business commuters?

Surely it would make more sense to improve and extend standard lines and services for everyone? Or even, heaven forbid, drop the price of rail travel so the average person has a fighting chance of affording a ticket?

Spending vast amounts of money on the high speed link can only work to the detriment of standard services, the very services the government should be looking to provide.

Trains are lifeline for small communities

The new high speed train is certainly going to make the journey from some Kent towns into London more convenient.

But I hope that we do not see the services which currently run, being phased out.

That would make many villages in the county virtually inaccessible.

Proper services linking small communities with towns and cities need to run alongside the express trains for everyone to benefit.

Still teaching world to sing

The New Seekers will be visiting Kent on their 40th-anniversary tour. Neill Barston talks to Paul Layton, the band's longest-serving member

NEW SEEKERS

Saturday, July 11
Leas Cliff Hall, Folkestone

THERE are few if any musicians who can claim their musical career gained a helping hand from the late, great Doors frontman Jim Morrison.

But so it was for former child actor Paul Layton, whose encounter with the iconic American singer left quite an impression on him during his early 20s.

"Jim interviewed me as the 'new boy' on his group's record label, Elektra. He was over in England doing some gigs at the Roundhouse in London which were great.

"I was a big fan of The Doors and he was a magnetic character, interviewing me with a crate of beer by his side!" said Paul, whose brief stint as a solo artist was not destined to meaningfully trouble the charts.

He could easily have returned to acting, having starred in a range of stage and screen projects including Judy Garland's final movie, I Could Go On Singing, and Dixon of Dock Green (co-incidentally marrying the great-niece of its star Jack Warner).

Yet his Jewish family was behind his chosen career path and Paul joined a revised line-up of the New Seekers, courtesy of Bee Gees producer Ossie Byrne, who had worked on one of his solo releases.

"When I applied to join the group I couldn't actually play bass, but like any actor I said that I could, so it was a case of me just asking people I knew to help me learn the tracks.

"They hadn't yet had any commercial success. I joined at the same time as Lyn Paul and we had some great times touring," revealed the Hertfordshire-based musician.

The group, who are on their 40th-anniversary tour, enjoyed a golden period in the early 70s, scoring several top-10 hits including Beg

Steal and Borrow, with which they represented Britain at the Eurovision Song Contest, and their most famous song, I'd Like to Teach The World To Sing, revised from the I'd like to Buy the World a Coke' TV advert.

It proved a huge No 1 hit and remains in the top-100-selling singles in the UK. Its influence has lingered, with rockers Oasis borrowing its simple yet jaunty melody for their album track Shakermaker.

They were reportedly forced to pay its writers $500,000, to which Noel Gallagher commented that "the band just drinks Pepsi now".

These days, 62-year-old Paul has far more time to spend with his family, including his singer-songwriter daughter Lucy.

His other great passion is getting out on the golf course, which touring occasionally allows. But as the longest-serving member of the band, it's never far from his thoughts.

There have been many changes in personnel down the years (including a split in the mid-70s), but they have survived far longer than many acts could ever hope for.

"Though our early days were great, there was a lot of pressure, so now we are just really enjoying ourselves for the 40th-anniversary tour.

"There are no problems of egos within the band and we're putting out a greatest-hits album on which we've recorded some new tracks along with some of the old material, which is something we've not done in a long time.

"The audiences have been very good to us and we enjoy meeting them all with signings at the end of the show, which we'll be doing down in Folkestone."

To book tickets for the New Seekers in Folkestone, either phone the box office on 0870 400089 or visit www.leascliffhall.org.uk.

HOP FARM FESTIVAL

Saturday and Sunday, July 4-5
 The Hop Farm, Paddock Wood

The 'Modfather' Paul Weller will make a welcome return to the Garden of England as he headlines this year's Hop Farm Festival.

Last year, Neil Young, Supergrass and Rufus Wainwright put on stunning displays, which this year's stellar line-up will be hoping to match.

The two-day event on July 4-5 features appearances from a raft of household names including The Fratellis on Saturday, supported by Pigeon Detectives, The View, Florence and the Machine, Ash and Echo and the Bunnymen. Joining Mr Weller on Sunday are Editors, Doves, Super Furry Animals, The Twang, Mystery Jets and Ladyhawke.

There are also performances from British Sea Power, Scratch Perverts and 2ManyDjs.

One thing that marks it out as being a little bit special is that it's a corporate branding-free and no VIP area event which will doubtless ensure good vibes all-round. Day tickets are £65 or £125 for both days (which includes camping). Box office 0871 220 0260 or visit www.hopfarmfestival.com

COUNTRYSIDE CELEBRATION

Saturday, July 4
 Wye Nature Reserve

SOAK up the summer sun with a celebration of Kentish countryside at Wye National Nature Reserve.

The day's free festivities aim to promote preservation of our landscape.

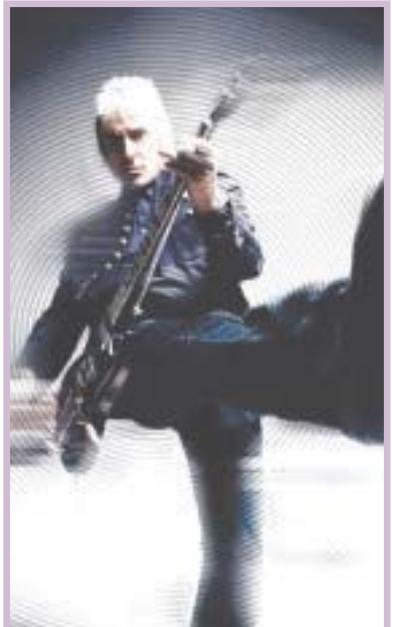

As part of the Welcome to the Wildside project managed by Natural England and partly funded by the Heritage Lottery Fund, the festival offers a chance to appreciate this stunning nature reserve.

Activities will include hurdle making, painting or hazel sculpture, plus demonstrations of spoon-carving, and guided walks.

Visitors are encouraged to bring a picnic and take in a selection of live music.

Stalls at the festival will include Kent Bat Group, Kent and Medway Biological Records Centre, Wye Rural Museum Trust, and the North Downs Way.

Parking will be limited, but a shuttle-bus service will run between Wye station and Wye NNR. The event runs from 11am until 4pm. For more information contact Emma Griffiths via email at wildside@naturalengland.org.uk or phone 03000 604765.

SEGWAY TOUR

Ongoing
 Leeds Castle

TAKE on a whole new perspective of Leeds Castle with the arrival of Segway tours through its magnificent grounds.

Fun and easy to manoeuvre, these quirky two-wheeled transporters may not be fully road-legal here in the UK, yet they can be used for off-road adventuring.

They are ideal way of exploring gardens while taking the weight off your feet.

Once you've taken a short training session on the self-balancing Segway, riders are taken on an escorted tour courtesy of Southern Segway, which operates within strict safety guidelines that require the use of safety helmets.

Guides will show you around the castle grounds and the route takes in Peacock Alley, the Duckery and a water cascade which offers fine views towards the castle. You can then soak up the woodland views towards the Pilgrims Way.

The Segway experience takes around 45 minutes and you must be at least 14 (under 16s must be accompanied by an adult). It costs £15 per person, though castle entry ticket is not required. Call 01622 765400 or visit www.southernsegway.com

Modfather heads a stellar line-up at two-day festival

MODFATHER: Paul Weller will wrap up the festival

THE Hop Farm Festival is just three days away – and tickets are still available.

The Paddock Wood two-dayer, which kicks off on Saturday, boasts 50 of the top bands, DJs and solo artists from across the globe, and with a weekend ticket costing just £125, I make that £2.50 per artist.

That's £2.50 to watch the Modfather Paul Weller bring the main stage to a close on Sunday night.

For less than the price of a pint you could watch up-and-coming singer/songwriter Florence and the Machine on the opening day.

British favourites The Fratellis, Pigeon Detectives, The View and Ash all join Florence on the Saturday line-up.

Sunday brings the Editors, Doves, Super Furry Animals and Mystery Jets to Kent.

Dance fans have also been catered for, with Etienne De Crecy, Alex Gopher and Scratch Perverts all taking to the decks.

The line-up across all three stages is so strong that it leaves Hop Farm ticket holders with a number of difficult decisions.

Late night Sunday could be spent in front of the main stage with Paul Weller, by the dance stage and 2ManyDJs on the third stage with British Sea Power.

Mid-afternoon Saturday sees Brit pop veterans Ash and breakthrough rock trio The Joy Formidable take to separate stages at the same time.

And this is just the tip of the iceberg. Too much choice.

The Hop Farm Festival stands alone in the overcrowded festival market, offering an event free from ticket registration, VIP areas, branding and sponsorship.

NEWCOMERS: Rock trio The Joy Formidable

This year the festival offers a weekend experience of boutique camping, top-notch food and traditional ales.

The Hop Farm Festival takes place at The Hop Farm in Paddock Wood on Saturday, July 4 and Sunday, July 5. Weekend tickets cost £125, with day tickets priced at £65.

LOOKING FOR ERIC (15)

A suicidal postman receives spiritual guidance from famously-philosophical midfielder Eric Cantona in this quirky British film exploring the escape football offers fans in their hour of need.

YEAR ONE (12A)

Road movie through the Paleolithic era headlined by Jack Black and Michael Cera. An incompetent duo are banished from their caveman tribe and embark on a quest of self-discovery.

SUNSHINE CLEANING (15)

Two feuding sisters rediscover life amid the detritus of the deceased in this portrait of dysfunctional family life. The estranged siblings end up working together cleaning up crime scenes.

Shia's transformed into Hollywood's hottest star

■ BY SHEREEN LOW

SHIA LaBeouf has gone from jobbing child actor to international superstar almost as quickly as a car can morph into a robot.

He's now one of the hottest young actors in Hollywood and is commanding the column inches to go with it. In the weeks leading up to the release of Transformers: Revenge Of The Fallen, the stories have been rife.

"I'm living a meaningless life," shouted one magazine headline. Another claimed, "I saw my parents have sex", crediting his sense of humour to his parents' hippy, carefree lifestyle. He's been labelled an alcoholic and called "resentful" and "foul-mouthed".

Yet when I speak to him, sitting in a posh London hotel, the 23-year-old is keeping that side of him, if it exists, firmly hidden. In fact, his lips are almost as tightly buttoned as the shirt he's wearing.

Shia says he takes the attention in his stride and even reveals the details of one article that made him laugh out loud: "Reading that I made my mum very attractive. That was hysterical," he says with a smile.

Life has changed out of all proportion for the LA-born actor since the release of Transformers, the highest-grossing film of 2007.

Despite acting since he was 12, the leading role in the blockbuster catapulted Shia into one of Tinseltown's hottest – and most talked-about – young stars.

It won him awards and a starring role in Indiana Jones And The Kingdom Of The Crystal Skull, sparking speculation that he'll take over from Harrison Ford once he's done with the franchise.

The attention is sure to get even more

RISING STAR: Shia LaBeouf has been catapulted into the spotlight thanks to the Transformers films intense with the Transformers sequel, in which he reprises his role as plucky teenager Sam Witwicky, who gets caught in the robot battle between the Autobots and their Decepticon enemies.

"It's been great," he says. "My trailer was bigger this time! It's flattering, it's the best kind of review to be asked to do it again."

He adds: "It doesn't feel as crazy [this time].

VIEW THIS PREVIEW

yourkenttv.co.uk

First time, it was figuring a lot of things out – we were flying by the seat of our pants.

"We didn't know what it would be like and this time we've battened down the hatches. We're just getting better at it."

He says: "These movies are adventurous to make, you know. It's not just an adventure to watch, but it's a real adventure to make."

It turned out to be quite a rough ride for Shia, who preferred to do a lot of his own stunts but suffered quite a few injuries during the making of the film.

"I broke my hand, I almost went blind, and sprained my knee. It was a rough shoot. The pace is the worst thing, just the non-stop shooting. But I feel good now."

YOUR TV REVIEW

■ BY TOM BETTS

- ALAN CARR CHATTY MAN Channel 4, 10pm, Sunday
- HOTEL BABYLON BBC One, 9pm, Friday

IT'S hardly a new format, but I have to hand it to Alan Carr – his new Channel 4 chat show is a winner.

It's perfect end of weekend stuff, before you doze off to sleep with the Monday morning blues looming.

Three shows in and all have been rather good so far.

Interviews with Bruce Forsyth, Samuel L Jackson, Heather Graham and girl-kisser Katy Perry have all been a hoot and only the Ivana Trump chat has stalled, though that wasn't the host's fault.

Her broken English didn't quite gel with the wonky-toothed comic's camp down-to-earth humour and made for uncomfortable viewing as she attempted to smile her way through the show before collecting her appearance fee.

Carr has that self-deprecating persona that never really loses its appeal.

Now he is afraid to risk offending the guests he sits opposite, which is also a good thing and makes for a more exciting crop of interviews.

For my money he is much funnier than Jonathan Ross, even if he is back on form post Manuelgate.

Whereas Ross can come over as somewhat self-obsessed, perhaps not the best attribute for a talk show host, Carr seems genuinely interested in what his guests have to say and is a very funny bloke, which always helps.

His stand-up show Tooth Fairy, still occasionally repeated on E4, is one of those stand-out moments that convince you there is more to someone's talent than prattling about with hairy bloke Justin Lee Collins and ripping the latest crop of Big Brother hopefuls.

CHATTY BOX: Alan Carr's new Channel 4 talk show proves just what a talent he really is Ratings have been good and deservedly so. It would be great if this were given a slightly earlier time slot for more people to enjoy, but would likely suffer if that happened.

Some of the more risque humour would have to be toned down and that essence of naughtiness would have to be binned.

BBC One has once again wheeled out Hotel Babylon, which seems amazing because it is just so ruddy awful.

When a prime-time show relies on such heady names as Nigel Harman, Chris Bisson and page three luvvies Lucy Pinder and Michelle Marsh to carry it, the alarms bells must surely start to ring. The storylines are often preposterous and the dialogue nothing short of painful.

This is billed as a drama, which is odd as the proceedings are in no way dramatic or interesting for that matter.

developing confidence and individual talents

Frustrated to know that your child could succeed but is making slow progress?

Is it because of going unnoticed in a large school or a large class size?

Is your child lacking the confidence to flourish?

At Dover College, we are as keen as any other school to cater for the most able pupils and do it well. However, our recent inspection highlighted our great ability as a school to enable our more average pupils to achieve far better than their potential suggested on entry. By offering boys and girls timely affirmation and appropriate challenges in a caring environment, many of them surprise their parents and, more importantly, themselves with their achievements.

YOUR WEEK'S HOROSCOPE

BY RUSSELL GRANT

AQUARIUS (Jan 21-Feb 19)

BE realistic when it comes to family. Nobody is going to change overnight. This is especially true of a forgetful female. Don't trust them with important duties or expensive items. This will probably make more work for you, but it's better than setting everybody up for a disappointment.

• To find out more about what the stars have in store call Russell on Aquarius 09067-531762

PISCES (Feb 20-Mar 20)

YOUR intuition is telling you there is something wrong with a relative or neighbour. You must be sure to press them if they keep insisting everything is fine. It's possible they're struggling with a serious problem. Offer to help with chores as a means to take some pressure off.

• To find out more about what the stars have in store call Russell on Pisces 09067-531763

ARIES (Mar 21-Apr 20)

WORKING with a group will not be easy. You're better off retreating to somewhere quiet where you can focus. It's possible you will blurt out a friend's secret by accident. If this happens, be sure to tell them that you betrayed their confidence. It may take awhile to be forgiven, though.

• To find out more about what the stars have in store call Russell on Aries 09067-531752

CANCER (Jun 23-Jul 23)

GO over bills with a fine-toothed comb as some erroneous charges could be made to your account. On the plus side, an impromptu trip allows you to travel to a glamorous locale. Be sure to take a smart evening outfit, as you never know who you're going to meet.

LIBRA (Sep 24-Oct 23)

SOMEONE may be playing fast and loose with your heart. Take this flirt's declarations with a huge dose of salt. If you have a family, be very vigilant about keeping your promises. If you have to make a choice between attending a work or family matter, pick the latter.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 20)

YOU may not be able to afford items that were previously within reach. Practicing restraint will help you avoid debt. This may not seem important now, but it will make a difference to your future. The fewer bills, the easier it will be to make a bold move toward your happiness.

• To find out more about what the stars have in store call Russell on Capricorn 09067-531761

TAURUS (Apr 21-May 21)

YOU'RE getting mixed signals from an authority figure. The best way to avoid trouble is to get their instructions in writing and be sure to date them or you'll have to defend yourself against unfair accusations. A sympathetic friend helps you decompress after work.

• To find out more about what the stars have in store call Russell on Taurus 09067-531753

GEMINI (May 22-Jun 22)

BEWARE of falling under a guru's spell. Although their advice is seductive, it can pull you into a dark place. Be especially alert to any pleas for money. You have a better use for your hard-earned cash. A boss or authority figure may promise more than they can deliver.

• To find out more about what the stars have in store call Russell on Gemini 09067-531754

LEO (Jul 24-Aug 23)

A RELATIONSHIP is showing signs of strain. The object of your affection needs to be more consistent. Being trifled with brings out the worst in you. Happily, there are some other romantic prospects on the horizon, so if this union doesn't last, you'll quickly start another.

• To find out more about what the stars have in store call Russell on Leo 09067-531756

VIRGO (Aug 24-Sep 23)

BE honest when it comes to your job. There may be a limited future with this position. Promises of raises and promotions that never come true are warning signs. Listen to a close friend's advice with regard to work prospects. Adopting some of their behaviour could benefit you.

• To find out more about what the stars have in store call Russell on Virgo 09067-531757

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov 22)

YOU'RE on an emotional rollercoaster, and it's not for the first time. Someone who is dear to your heart is driving you crazy with their behaviour. At first it was fun trying to make sense of their whims. Now, it's just exhausting. Maybe it's time to take a temporary break from each other.

Discover the wild west in Utah

■ BY MARGARET DAVIS

UTAH can be easily overlooked among the huge range of holiday destinations on offer in a country as vast as the United States.

Mention Salt Lake City to any Brit, and it will conjure up images of Mormons, weak beer and the 2002 Winter Olympics.

In fact, Utah has much more to offer than that, especially for holidaymakers wanting to escape the daily grind and shake off the cobwebs in a spectacular outdoor playground.

The western state is perhaps best known for skiing and winter sports, but remains a quite breathtaking rocky wilderness when there is no snow on the ground.

Yet even in the absence of snow, the area is a beautiful place to visit. In early October we were treated to the blazing reds and yellows of the autumn leaves – a perfect backdrop for pony trekking in the foothills nearby.

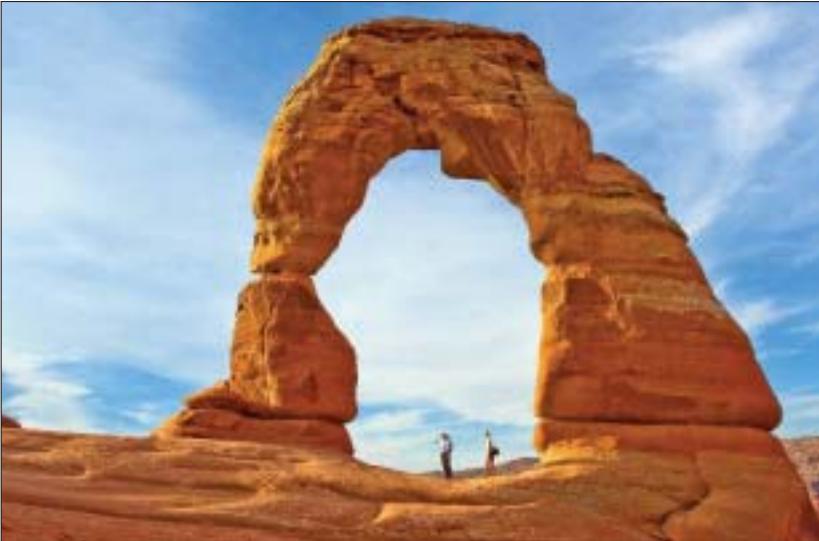

It was a fun way to see the countryside, and meant we could avoid crawling up the steep slopes ourselves. There could not have been a better remedy to soothe away the shop-soiled feeling of long-haul flights and jetlag.

This is the beginning of film-set style surroundings which leave visitors with a huge smile – and stopping every two minutes to take photos.

Dead Horse Point, half a mile from where the dramatic climax of Thelma And Louise was filmed, gives a jaw-dropping view, looking out over the Colorado River. Without the water, you could be forgiven for thinking you were on Mars.

But visitors do not just come to stand and stare. A wide range of outdoor activities are available throughout the year.

Moab, the small town where raft operator

EYE-CATCHING: The red, almost Martian, landscape of Utah leaves explorers stunned by their surroundings

Sheri Griffiths is based, attracts hoards of active types all through the summer and has a sprinkling of shops, bars and restaurants which cater for the crowds.

Once you've finished soaking up the atmosphere around Moab, a more relaxed river expedition awaits on the San Juan River, leaving from Bluff.

The archaeological trip will see your guide explain the spectacular geology of the surrounding area, with stops to see ancient paintings and ruins on the way.

However, both the boat trips come with a health warning: in the sun they would be fantastic (with all usual precautions in place), but in autumnal rain it gets cold, so bring waterproofs and warm clothes to avoid grumpy faces.

The rafting in particular will get you completely, utterly and absolutely soaked, even through the splash suits provided.

Coming back to urban surroundings, Salt Lake City is a pleasant and nicely laid-out town, with chances for fine dining and a night out in a bar, as well as good shopping during the day.

So when you plan your next holiday, give Utah a chance – you'll come back fully refreshed and fired up with a new enthusiasm for the outdoors.

PROPERTY NEWS

Now agents claim four buyers for each house

THERE are four house-hunters for every property for sale, according to estate agents who have analysed recent property trends.

Demand for property is rising faster than supply, with the number of house-hunters registered with estate agents increasing from 265 in April to 299 in May. But the average branch has fallen to 69 properties for sale in May, from 76 in April.

Gary Smith, president of the National Association of Estate Agents said: "NAEA members are showing that there are buyers a-plenty out there."

"More often than not these are also potential sellers who are at the beginning of the process – so there is bound to be a lag which creates a shortage of properties in the short term."

"With mortgage interest rates at historically low levels and prices now far more realistic than in previous years, home ownership in the UK seems to be set to lead the way out of the recession."

Buyers are still able to negotiate a discount, however, with the average selling price 6.3 per cent below the actual asking price.

The survey also found the number of first time buyers increased to 43 per cent in May – a significant increase on last month's 23 per cent.

How energy suppliers overcharge the poor

ENERGY firms may be in potential breach of EU rules by overcharging thousands of the county's poorest households.

That's the warning from the National Housing Federation as energy regulator Ofgem has been accused of failing millions of hard up families across Britain.

Members of the Federation say it is "an absolute disgrace" that less well off people should be penalised by big business.

The statement comes after it emerged several energy firms were allowed to overcharge prepay meter customers by £464m over a three-year period.

While they are allowed to charge higher prices to prepay customers to cover meter installation and maintenance costs, those charges need to be "cost reflective" otherwise suppliers risk being in breach of EU directives.

Ofgem is to finish consulting on the new regulations it hopes will stop energy firms from charging prepay customers more for their gas and electricity than the figure justified by the extra cost to the supplier of providing a meter.

LIMITED: Although there's been an increase in enquiries, there are warnings these are only coming from the equity-rich side of the market, with specific properties in mind

Why more enquiries does NOT mean higher prices

AVERAGE prices of new homes on the market have fallen for the first time in five months, according to a leading property company.

Despite several surveys suggesting house prices were set to rise during May, new sellers are still hesitant and the average asking price fell by 0.4 per cent over the last month to £226,436.

Rightmove has identified trends in property prices which are reflected in the desirability of what is on offer.

Miles Shipside, the company's commercial director, said: "It's a mistake to confuse the upturn in enquiries and sales with a return to a more normal market."

■ BY NICK AMES

"As the best deals on property and mortgages are only open to the equity-rich, the new stock that agents are looking to attract has to match what these purchasers want to buy and can afford."

"Perennially popular areas with good schooling are in, while flats in large blocks and terraces requiring major works are out, meaning new sellers are having to adjust prices accordingly."

Although there has been a ten per cent rise in new sellers over the last three months, there is still a shortage of houses coming on to the market.

Rightmove also said that a north-south divide is beginning to grow in housing prices.

The number of new sellers in the southern regions of the UK are down by 45.3 per cent on the same period in 2008, while the rest of England and Wales has seen only a 40.1 per cent fall.

A combination of lenders' risk bias towards southern deposit-rich buyers and less fresh saleable stock would therefore suggest a speedier price recovery in the South, Rightmove added.

But although equity-rich buyers are snapping up properties, a large sector of the market is still being sidelined.

Mr Shipside said: "Property deals appear within the grasp of cash-strapped first-time buyers, but every rise in fixed rates frustratingly nudges them a bit further out of reach."

Almost a quarter of mortgage applications denied

NEW figures from the Bank of England have revealed around 15,800 mortgage applications were turned down in May.

The report in lending found there were 67,000 mortgage applications for home purchases in May, but 23.55 per cent were turned down. However, since the start of the year acceptance rates have risen from a low in January, when three out of ten applications were turned down.

The number of applications from people wanting to buy is also up, although there is a lack of supply of good properties coming onto the market.

The number of mortgage applications for house purchase is up 45.6 per cent since December.

The Bank of England report confirmed data from the Council of Mortgage Lenders, that while there is interest from buyers there are also frequent cases of remortgaging.

The bank put the fall in remortgage lending down to borrowers being happy to fall onto low standard variable rate mortgages at the end of fixed deals and falling house prices eating away at homeowners' equity.

This means they are unable to qualify for more competitive mortgage deals requiring lower loan-to-value levels.

The report also notes a "significant tightening in availability" for credit cards along with weak personal loan lending as lenders see greater risks of defaults on loans.

YOUR MOVE

The UK's most visited estate agency website*

www.your-move.co.uk

There's never been a better time to make your move

Thinking of selling? Don't be alarmed by house prices.

- Take advantage of the falling market to move upmarket.
- Your next home won't be this affordable forever.
- When the market recovers the price gap between the house you sell and the one you buy will widen again.

Don't lose your chance to buy your dream home - get moving today.

MOTORS NEWS

Greener plant grows greener Prius hybrid

TOYOTA launches an all-new, greener and more futuristic Prius on August 1 produced by a 'green' factory.

The petrol-electric hybrid is built in Japan at one of five Toyota global Eco-Factories designed to minimise environmental impact through energy saving, waste management and recycling.

Just as the new Prius (from £18,370) can use solar energy to cool its cabin when parked, half of the Tsutsumi plant's electricity comes from solar panels, while sunlight ducts boost interior lighting.

...and BMW launches greenest ever 3-Series

BMW has announced its most fuel-efficient and cleanest BMW 3-Series ever, attracting just £35/year road tax.

The new BMW 316d ES Saloon – on sale in September from £23,330 – features a 116bhp 1,995cc four-cylinder diesel offering 0-62mph of 10.9 seconds and an official 62.8mpg on the combined cycle with CO2 emissions of just 118g/km, helped by a six-speed manual gearbox and the green technologies of BMW's EfficientDynamics package including Stop-Start and energy recovery from braking.

Hyundai ships come in

AMBITIOUS Korean brand Hyundai will upset the motor industry establishment when June UK registration figures are announced.

It has embraced the Government-sponsored Scrappage scheme enthusiastically, promoting the i10 city car in particular – it sells from £4,995 through Scrappage.

Hyundai has sold 11,500 cars under the scheme and started a major operation in which four car ships will unload 5,100 cars in four weeks.

The first has just landed 1,100 i10s and this model is tipped to storm the UK top 10 seller list for June.

CHANGE OF TACT: Volkswagen is now putting its weight behind 'eco' petrol engines, using the twin forces of direct injection plus turbocharging which made diesel so popular

VW has change of heart with their 'eco' engines

HAVING done much to push diesel power, Volkswagen is now putting weight behind a return to petrol.

And it is using twin forces behind the diesel boom – direct injection of fuel plus turbocharging. The latter is nothing new, of course, but VW is now using it to boost small and relatively puny engines when needed, without harming overall fuel consumption and emissions.

It is also the perfect partner to VW's new generation direct injection technology, which will surely revolutionise the petrol engine in the same way that common rail direct injection transformed the diesel.

'DI' boosts compression, efficiency and pulling power, again without damaging the green credentials of the engine, while giving our VW Golf SE 1.4 TSI five-door (£16,520) test car all the sportiness most owners will ever desire.

With 120bhp on tap, it seemed to skip along and bowl around corners. The diesel equivalents output feels just as quick in the straight ahead, but the heavier engine shows up on the bends and undoubtedly wears tyres and front end bits more significantly.

This 'eco' petrol version can also average well over 40mpg and requires just £125/year in road tax – not bad when it costs considerably less than equivalent diesels.

The latest Golf carries over the excellent chassis from the previous model, which has allowed VW to apportion more interior budget this time, shown in high quality, improved seating, excellent yet lightweight sound insulation and superb ergonomics. The cabin also has far more space, without a significant increase in size.

VW offers its new Adaptive Chassis Control (ACC) system too, allowing three modes for suspension, steering and throttle response.

It is an impressive piece of tech and 'Sport' mode combines with the lively engine to deliver a cut-price GTI to the hands on the wheel – the downside is that ACC adds £705 to the price of the car.

On the other hand, you can afford this luxury: versions of our pumped up petrol Golf cost a £1,000 less than diesel counterparts and are slightly faster and more nimble.

With some buyers never fully convinced by the pro-diesel argument, the arrival of modern and greener petrol alternatives could re-ignite the whole petrol v diesel argument.

MidKent College

MidKent College based in the Medway Towns and Maidstone is seeking to appoint an outstanding individual in the following area:

HR Adviser

Salary - £29,559-£36,630

MidKent College has been providing 'top quality' education and training in Kent for almost 100 years. As one of Kent's largest further and higher education Colleges it is important that we also provide 'top quality' support for our managers and staff in this innovative and exciting environment.

We are expanding our HR team to include professional, CIPD qualified HR Advisers, who will strengthen our provision of advice and guidance for managers and staff. We are looking to appoint experienced professionals who can support organisational change processes and have good knowledge of employment law, combined with strong generalist experience and knowledge in key areas of HR delivery. This will include employee relations, performance management, recruitment, workforce planning and organisational development.

Our strong customer service focus requires excellent interpersonal skills and an ability to engage with people at all levels of the organisation, working to drive, develop and implement new HR policies and initiatives that support the delivery of 'top quality' education and training.

For an application pack please contact Caroline Stark on 01634 884511 or e mail caroline.stark@midkent.ac.uk

KOS MEDIA

TERMS AND CONDITIONS*KOS MEDIA (PUBLISHING) LTD
TERMS AND CONDITIONS

1. Advertisements will be accepted only on the express condition that the advertiser warrants that the advertisement does not in any way contravene any existing legislation and in particular the Trade and Description Act 1968 and the Consumer Credit Act 1974.
2. It is the responsibility of all advertisers to ensure that all advertising meets all forms of government legislation and KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd (the "advertiser") takes no responsibility for liability in any way in omission to the content of our media.
3. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
4. All rates within the annual advertising agreement will be rate protected for 12 months from the first date of publication under the signed agreement.
5. Any unsuitable material posted on any website belonging to KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd by the advertiser or any associated third party will be removed or refused. All personal and sensitive information posted on any website belonging to KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd in relation to the use of the posting of material via the media owner's online administration tool will be the responsibility of the advertiser. The advertiser indemnifies KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd against any damages as a result of misuse of these privileges by either the advertiser or any third party given password privileges by the advertiser.
6. KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd reserves the right to change passwords intermittently to ensure the overall and ongoing security of its websites within the public domain.
7. Copying, reprinting, licencing or otherwise within the various forms of media in print, electronic and moving film owned by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd must have been sought, verified or paid for by the advertiser where applicable. Approval or permissions must have been given by any potential beneficial owner voice-over or music. The advertiser must be able to verify any statements or claims (promotional or otherwise) in relation to their products/services promoted within any of the media offerings belonging to KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd.
8. Where a full page advertisement occurs for whatever reason, the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre where it relates to the media owner's printed publications. This will NOT apply to full-page advertisements which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
9. KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd reserves the right to omit or refuse any advertisement/commercial/web content without notice or explanation. In these terms the word "advertiser" shall be construed to include any person or organisation advertising on behalf of another.
10. No guarantee of insertion cannot be given and the media owners shall not be liable for any loss or damage caused by any error inaccuracy within your marketing content. In no case shall the total liability of the media owner for any error or omission exceed the price charged by the media owners for that advertising.
11. No liability is accepted for any loss or damage alleged to have arisen through delay in forwarding replies to Box numbers, however caused, nor for the loss or damage to any artwork supplied.
12. Advertisers are responsible for any media messages with KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd must be made in writing to the accounts department within 10 days of publishing.
13. KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd accepts no responsibility for any errors or omissions made on their websites by the advertiser.
14. KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd has the right to cancel the advertiser's annual membership without notice should the advertiser deliberately publish out of date material or content on any of the media owner's online digital platforms. KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd will seek to recover in full, all outstanding invoices in relation to the signed annual membership contract as a result of the advertiser's negligence in this regard and reserves the right to claim compensation for any potential financial action taken.
15. Advertisers are requested to check their advertisements after the first insertion. The media owner will not be responsible for any errors on subsequent insertions, which have not been advised to them in writing.
16. A minimum of one month's notice must be given in writing for any cancellation of the signed annual advertiser's agreement. Upon cancellation, all discounts from KOS Media's standard media rates (July 2008-June 2009) will be recalculated and deducted accordingly in line with KOS Media's standard cancellation date card (effective July 2008-June 2009) and will reflect the revised length of commitment denoted by the advertiser's written cancellation. Any surcharges, refunds or costs in relation to the production of the advertiser's TV commercial for the commitment set out within the advertiser's agreement will be met in full by the advertiser as per KOS Media's standard media advertising rate card (July 2008-June 2009). Discounts will be recalculated and any refunds or surcharges will be paid by either party within 30 days of the advertiser's written cancellation. Any TV advertising placed must give a minimum of seven days' written notice and any discounts given for series bookings will be forfeited by the advertiser upon cancellation.
17. Seasonal contracts, Your Professional classified advertisements or any uplift advertising within the annual contract with the advertiser will be invoiced in full - at rate card - on receipt of any written cancellation of this contract within the 12-months.
18. All uplift advertisements must be booked in at least three months in advance of publication and will be subject to availability. All dates booked will be on a first-come, first-served basis.
19. The advertiser must agree to the date and time of filming of any online TV advertising commercial supplied by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd within the advertiser's agreement. (Platinum, Gold, Silver standard of commercial). Should, for any reason, the advertiser not be available at the agreed time without giving sufficient notice (at least 48 hours), KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd reserves the right to charge for any further TV production at its standard published hourly rate. The advertiser will be charged for the production services to complete its TV commercial or any other production in the agreed timescale agreement. The advertiser will approve and accept that there are only two choices of voice-over and music offered by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd. Should an advertiser wish to use other voice-overs or non-copyright free music it is the responsibility of the advertiser to pay the PRS rights should they be required to do so. Any changes to or failure to approve the TV production by the deadlines agreed between both parties will result in KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd being given permission by the advertiser to use the music supplied by the media owner until the advertiser can supply a TV commercial produced at their own cost and risk outside of this agreement. The advertiser also accepts and agrees that this action would not reduce the value or cost of their membership. Any cost of changes required to the TV commercial throughout the advertiser's agreement will be borne by the advertiser outside of this agreement.
20. Each advertiser accepts that their ranking and position within KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd's search engine will be equal to those within their category (Platinum, Gold, Silver, Bronze) after the date of rank based on the search engine criteria of optimisation within their level (Platinum, Gold, Silver or Bronze).
21. Any delivery claims made by the advertiser or discount vouchers published within the print or online media of KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd and any action as a result of the public or otherwise is the sole responsibility of the advertiser. Any claims resulting from this via KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd must be met by the advertiser.
22. a. All credit accounts are due for payment within 30 days of the date of issue. Time to be of the essence. All sums due to KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd or RBS Factoring shall be paid in full, and the Advertiser shall have no right of set off in any circumstance.
- b. In the event that payment is not received by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd or RBS Factoring by the due date, the media owner shall be entitled to suspend all further advertising until payment is received and/or repudiate the contract and make any such charges for breaking the contract.
- c. In the event that payment is not received by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd or RBS Factoring by the due date, the media owner reserves the right to charge interest on all overdue balances calculated on a daily basis at the rate of two per cent above the minimum lending rate of National Westminster Bank Plc from time to time in force.
- d. Not withstanding anything in these terms and conditions or implied to the contrary, in the event of the Advertiser ceasing to use the services of KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd (for whatever reason), the whole amount of monies due from the Advertiser to the date of cessation shall fall due for immediate payment.
- e. The media owner shall be liable for all costs incurred by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd in the recovery of debts not paid by the due date.
- f. Payment may be made by cheque, credit transfer, direct debit, cash and any major credit card.
23. Any discount which KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd may have agreed with the Advertiser shall be forfeited in the event of failure by the Advertiser to complete the contract or to meet the above credit terms.
24. Advertising Agency commission will be allowed to those advertisers recognised by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd shall not exceed ten per cent and will be subject to the terms of that recognition. This commission will not be allowed if the Advertising Agency fails to meet the terms.
25. All private advertisements and certain categories as laid down by KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd must be prepaid.
26. The Advertiser agrees to indemnify KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd in respect of all costs, damages or other charges falling upon the media owners or any of the companies within the KOS Media Group as the result of legal action or threatened legal action or threat of legal action arising from the publication of any advertisement or advertising promotion.
27. An order for an advertisement shall amount to acceptance of these terms and conditions, and any condition placed on an order by an Advertiser shall be null and void in so far as it conflicts with them.
28. Copyright in advertisements produced wholly or partially by the media owners belong to KOS Media (Publishing) Ltd. Advertisers may not reproduce such advertisements without the media owner's written consent.

All terms and conditions stated above are in place to protect the advertiser, the media owner and the communities they serve within the public domain as well as the beneficial rights of individuals and organisations. KOS Media will endeavour to always act reasonably in applying its terms and conditions.

BE A 'PROPERTY PROFESSIONAL'

Regardless of the recession, a new European Directive now legally requires an estimated 2.5 million homes and commercial properties being rented, sold or built to have an Energy Assessment this year alone. And more 'green environmental' laws are coming!

For example next year nearly every commercial property with air-conditioning must have an Assessment before the January 2011 deadline.

Applicants are therefore required to train now as multi-skilled 'Property Professionals' to carry out commercial and air-conditioning Energy Assessments and many other roles such as Flood and Fire Risk Assessments, Energy Audits, Insulation Surveys, Property Valuations, Home Condition Reports, Public Buildings Assessments etc.

No previous experience is necessary, training to join this new growth industry can usually be taken around current job at our nationwide training centres approved by the Government-appointed Awarding Body for the Built Environment and is subsidised. On qualifying start your own energy business, work for other Assessment Providers or be available for potential full or part-time work through our Energy Assessor Panel with earnings of £50 to £1,200 per Assessment.

ref: HK0260

Ring today for an interview and find out more about a career opportunity in this fast-expanding, new 'green' industry.

Kent Cricket League Division One

Hythe 1st XI v Ashford Town 1st XI

AN OUTSTANDING spell from Jago Pearson helped give Hythe only their second victory of the season as they beat Ashford Town by five wickets at the Grove.

Pearson took 7 for 46 as Ashford were bowled out cheaply, setting up a precious victory which took Hythe out of the bottom two.

The hosts opted to field first after winning the toss and the decision reaped dividends as Ben Dwyer dismissed Liam Tegg, Jason Boulter and James Watson to leave Ashford on 23 for 3.

Shannon Fattore steered the innings with a superb 87, sharing a substantial partnership with Stuart Paine to get Ashford back in the game. But Fattore's dismissal signalled the beginning of the end as the middle order and tail had no answer to Pearson's bowling.

With less than 200 to chase for victory, Hythe took as few risks as possible. Christopher Slee (31) and Richard Perkins (14) got them away to a steady start before a third wicket stand of 90 between Sam Butler (54) and Leon Morgan (47).

Jon Smith's 37 was the final nail in Ashford's coffin and despite being bowled by James Watson, it only prolonged the inevitable as Hythe reached their target in the 51st over.

LOCAL CRICKET ROUND-UP

KENT LEAGUE DIVISION ONE

Tenterden 1st XI v Lordswood 1st XI

TENTERDEN became the latest Division One side to feel the power of champions elect Lordswood as they crashed to a seven wicket defeat on Saturday.

The hosts gave themselves little chance for an upset as they suffered a monumental batting collapse, losing seven wickets for just 16 runs.

Their total of 77 was never likely to cause the Lords many problems and they wrapped up victory in the 20th over.

KENT FEEDER LEAGUE EAST 1A

Pembury 1st XI v Wye 1st XI

A LACK of runs cost Wye as they slipped to third from bottom with a seven wicket defeat to Pembury.

Batting first after winning the toss, Wye struggled as both openers were dismissed cheaply in quick succession. Giles Starley (45) was the only batsman to make a significant contribution as the visitors stuttered to 150.

Pembury looked far more at ease in their innings and raced to their victory target with 14 overs and seven wickets to spare.

KENT LEAGUE DIVISION FOUR

Bexleyheath 1st XI v Ashford Town 3rd XI

MORE than half the cricket season still remains but Ashford Town 3rds look destined for relegation after their losing streak was extended to eight games on Saturday.

With nine players they were always likely to struggle and only Luke Laws (35) and Darren Bailey (26) were able to occupy the crease for any length of time.

Ashfords' bowlers had little chance of defending 104 and so it proved as Bexleyheath got home with half their overs to spare in an eight-wicket victory.

KENT FEEDER LEAGUE EAST 1E

St Lawrence &amp; Highland Court 3rd XI

v Kennington 1st XI

ROBERT Iles produced a superb all-round performance as Kennington beat St Lawrence 3rds by 113 runs on Saturday.

Iles top scored with 72 from just 73 balls in Kennington's innings as the visitors posted a competitive 220 for 9 from their 46 overs.

St Lawrence were already in trouble at 78 for 5 when Iles began a productive spell, taking 4 for 14 to remove the hosts' tail as they were bowled out for just 107.

Camier impresses in World Superbike bow

Picture NICK DUNCAN

IMPRESSIVE: Leon Camier gave the home crowd something to cheer

LEON Camier turned heads on his wild card debut in the World Superbike Championship by picking up two points finishes at Donington Park.

The Ashford rider was eager to show his pace on the Airwaves Yamaha bike and shocked the crowd in free practice by finishing second, just a tenth of a second behind title contender Ben Spies.

A problem in qualifying left Camier disappointed with his grid slot of 17th, but it failed to dampen his weekend.

In the first race the 22-year-old got to grips with the challenge and brought the bike home in 13th.

The second race saw him produce one of his best rides of his career when he battled his way to sixth place after starting 16th on the grid.

He said: "Race one was tough. I struggled with braking, steering and a lack of grip. My start was horrendous. It was difficult to pass with a lack of grip and brake problems, but I had to take the chance whenever I could.

"I was a lot happier with race two. I still suffered with brake problems, but I just had to ride around them and overtake at every possible opportunity. My start was only slightly better compared to race one, but still pretty terrible. To make my way up to sixth is a big achievement."

After competing alongside the best superbike riders in the world, Camier will return to the British Superbike Championship this weekend at Scotland's Knockhill.

With a 58-point lead in the series, he will be looking to maintain his advantage with the championship reaching the halfway point.

PROGRESS: Ashford Town boss Steve Lovell

New budget kicks off signings for Nuts and Bolts

EIGHT members of last season's squad will definitely be playing for Ashford Town this coming campaign, according to manager Steve Lovell.

After financial difficulties triggered a summer of uncertainty, Town boss Lovell can now look forward to next season after being handed a fresh budget, following a successful meeting with the club's owners Don Crosbie and Tony Betteridge.

Since the meeting, Lovell has been in talks with the players from last season and revealed Paul Jones, Danny Lye, Ryan Briggs, Tony Browne, Mitchell Sherwood, Mark Lovell, Darren Ibrahim and John Ralph, will all be playing for the Nuts and Bolts next season.

He told Yourashford: "Myself and my assistant, Hugo Langton, are delighted to be able to move on and start working towards next year. We are looking forward to the challenge of building a new squad. I am not a person who likes talking about budgets, but I have worked to a similar one and got results.

"I have spoken to the majority of the players and so far only two have definitely told me they will not be playing which are Craig Wilkins who has joined Met Police and Jimmy Bottle. I am still waiting to hear back from some of the squad."

Lovell is happy with the response he has received from the majority of his side but admitted he is starting to look around for potential new signings.

He added: "At the moment I think I need to bring in perhaps two or three players. I will be giving other players in the squad, who didn't feature as much last season, a chance to prove themselves again."

The Ashford boss admitted he is expecting to hear from Seb Barton and Jimmy Elford soon, while goalkeeper Josh Willis could be on his way out after deciding to join Kingstonian for pre-season training.

SETBACK: Lisa Dobriskey is embroiled in a race against time to be fit in time for the World Trials to keep her World Athletics Championship hopes alive

Injury threatens Lisa's World title chances

ATHLETICS

BY TOM HOWARD

LESS than a year after narrowly missing out on an Olympic medal, Lisa Dobriskey is in a frantic fitness battle which threatens to rule her out of this summer's World Athletics Championships.

The Ashford-born 1500 metre runner picked up the stress injury to her leg a month ago, after returning from a warm weather training camp in South Africa in April. With Team GB's World Trials at Birmingham just two weeks away, Dobriskey has a fight on her hands to prove herself and qualify for the championships in Berlin later this summer.

With the injury coming so close to the World Trials, the 25-year-old, 2006 Commonwealth champion rates her chances of qualifying for the championships as only 50/50.

She told Yourashford: "It is going to be a race against time, so I have been training hard and doing work on treadmills. I am back running now, but it is touch and go whether I will make the trials and the World Championships."

"I should be fit in time for the trials, but the standard is so high this year so I don't know if I will qualify. I will keep working hard I have not given up and thrown in the towel yet."

The injury is a body blow for Dobriskey, who emerged as a world class athlete last year. Knocking several seconds off her personal best just before the Beijing Olympics, she finished fourth in the final, missing out on a medal by a fraction of a second.

Following on from the disappointment, Dobriskey had been targeting a medal at the World Championships to make amends for Beijing – making her situation all the more soul destroying.

She said: "It's really hard to take as the injury has come at the worst possible time. I am devastated that I might miss the World Championships, as I had really high hopes going into it. It is the main point of the season for me."

As she battles against the clock to get in peak form ahead of the World Trials, Dobriskey has received help from former marathon world champion Paula Radcliffe.
